This day will attempt to explore the conundrums that face us when we try to wrestle with the push for certainty in the face of uncertainty. The poet Keats proposed that the position to which we need to aspire is that of....

“Negative Capability, that is when man is capable of being in uncertainties, mysteries, doubts without any irritable reaching after fact and reason”

Keats saw this reflected in the works of many great writers and thinkers . This “being in uncertain[y] is a place between the mundane, ready reality and the multiple potentials of a more fully understood existence”.

CPC will bring together speakers who will tackle these fascinating themes from the perspective of research, clinical work, professional regulation....and comedy! We will be looking at issues such as :

- * HPC Regulation – imposing order but losing the point?
- * NICE – research as reductionism?
- * Clinical work – exploration or treatment?
